Here is a list of widely recommended foods and food supplements that can help to balance your body chemistry. This list is by no means exhaustive, but it will give you a good starting place.

How foods and liquids are changed

When the vibratory level of the energy in food, liquids or supplements is heightened, a positive change in the energy structure of food or liquid occurs. Energetic disturbances are harmonized and life force is raised within minutes.

The level of vitality in a substance before “charging” will influence the degree to which the item can be enhanced. Charging healthy, vital foods will increase their value tremendously — the life force is enhanced and the toxic effect is lessened. Depleted foods do not absorb as much energy, but toxic patterns will be neutralized, and the life force raised to whatever degree is possible.

Use it in the kitchen for charging groceries, preparing meals or treating pet food. Can also be used to energize supplements. Place it in the refrigerator or pantry to keep foods fresh longer.
